1994-2004

"Not since Eisenhower was President and Studebakers were popular have the youth been totally optimistic about their futures. The nation was at its prime; government was trusted; and the economy was booming. Since that time costly and questionable wars have been fought, countless political bargains have come to plague the government, and an insurmountable national debt has accumulated.

"Our future is more bleak than that of any of our parents' generations. The preceding generations attempted many new ideas, but no significant improvement in our condition is noticeable. Seven presidents have come and gone since the majority of our parents were born; government has expanded; and the economy has been hindered by inflation, debt, and greed. In the Sixties, graduating seniors recognized some of the same problems we face today. They rebelled in an attempt to restructure the world they lived in. The "Boomers" grew up, they married and they gave birth to a new generation,--ours . . . America's "Unlucky Generation."

"Now, like our parents from the mid-Sixties, we face discouraging prospects. For the first time in the history of this nation our chances of surpassing the success of our parents is slim.

"It would seem to the media, and to the social observers of today, that the progress of our society is declining. It is pointless for anyone to lay the blame, because whomever is at fault, we are the ones that will have to deal with the problem. We have inherited a legacy which puts us at a significant disadvantage.

"Worldwide, we no longer have a comparative education advantage; as a group our political efficacy is worse primarily because the young do not vote; we face a biased media and a critical adult leadership which has not yet recognized our potential; and the opportunity for growth and development are prohibitively expensive.

"Still we now must undertake the same problems our predecessors faced, because they never met their challenge: an impossible national debt, overwhelming crime rates, a growing number of welfare recipients, a rampant illegal drug market, an obvious crisis in both health care and education, and the prospect of inadequate employment for the majority of individuals.

"We must prepare ourselves to take the necessary risks and make the necessary sacrifices in order to protect the generation of our children from inheriting a similar situation. Our responsibility is not only to prepare ourselves for our individual success in the future, but we must also be concerned with the success of the entire nation. We must prove ourselves first if we are to overcome our foreordained failure. It is a given that our political and social involvement is critical; but what we need above all else is a vision of the promise democracy has to offer, in the same way that Pericles once advised the City of Athens:

'...poverty we think is no disgrace to acknowledge but a real degradation to make no effort to overcome....We differ from other[s]...in regarding the man who holds aloof from public life not as 'quiet' but as useless. We decide or debate, carefully and in person, all matters of policy, holding that acts are foredoomed to failure when undertaken undiscussed. For we are noted for being at once most adventurous in action and most reflective beforehand. In doing good, too, we are the exact opposite of the rest of mankind. We secure our friends by not accepting favors but by doing them. We are alone among mankind in doing men benefits, not on calculations of self-interest, but in the fearless confidence of freedom.'

"This, therefore is our duty: to vote, to hold our elected officials responsible, to be willing to sacrifice our wealth for the benefit of society, to support improvements in education for all, to resist the illegal, the oppressive, and the debilitating, and to assume genuine social responsibility.

"We must go forth with determination, and regardless of how difficult it is, we must not yield to complacency, or our mansion on the hill, but demand actual improvement in our lives and for all generations to come. Pericles would have extended the same challenge to us: 'Fix your eyes on the greatness of [America] as you have it before you day by day, fall in love with her, and when you feel her great, remember that this greatness was won by men and women with courage, with knowledge of their duty.'"

How much has changed in 20 years at PGHS?

A lot! The east side has added an entire wing, atrium, offices and classrooms. The commons area by the lunch room was covered and enclosed.

An additional band room has been built, the football stadium added field turf, rebuilt stands on each side and a large scoreboard.

The pool was redone and a large community center was built. The parking lot drag was expanded by tearing down several homes.

Check it out!

All new outside entrance:

None of this existed when we attended. This is by the marquee.

Notice the new band room at the right, the new classroom wing to the left and main entrance in the middle!

Upon entering the new entrance, you enter a large atrium/commons area:

for students to mingle and congregate. That wall painted blue is our original outside of the library! And the brick wall to the left is the outside of what was the most east of our school. Now fully enclosed.

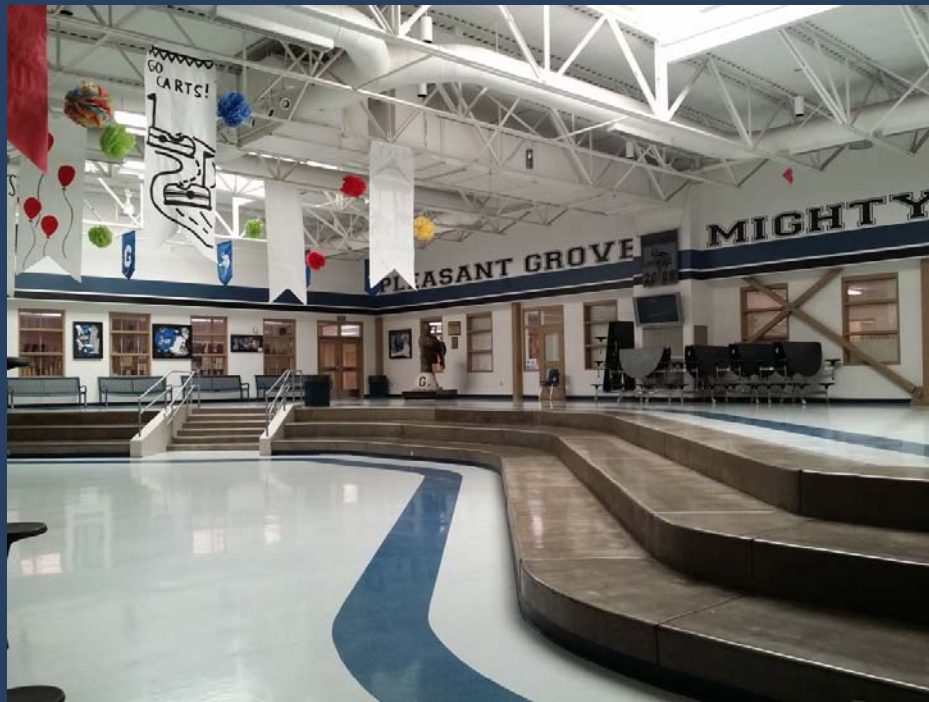

This large 2 story area is

Walking forward you come to our original entrance - to the right of the library wall above:

Where we used to enter school. The Main office in front of us now is the new counseling office. The Main office has moved to the new atrium just to the right of these doors.

Our old outdoor commons area has been enclosed so it can be used all year long. This is next to the cafeteria. Those windows in the back used to be the main office outdoor windows.

Mr. Viking (a school gift) now sits in this commons area and the original "G" rock has been combined into this statue.

Outside the commons area (in the hall by the drama department), a large trophy case has been set up.

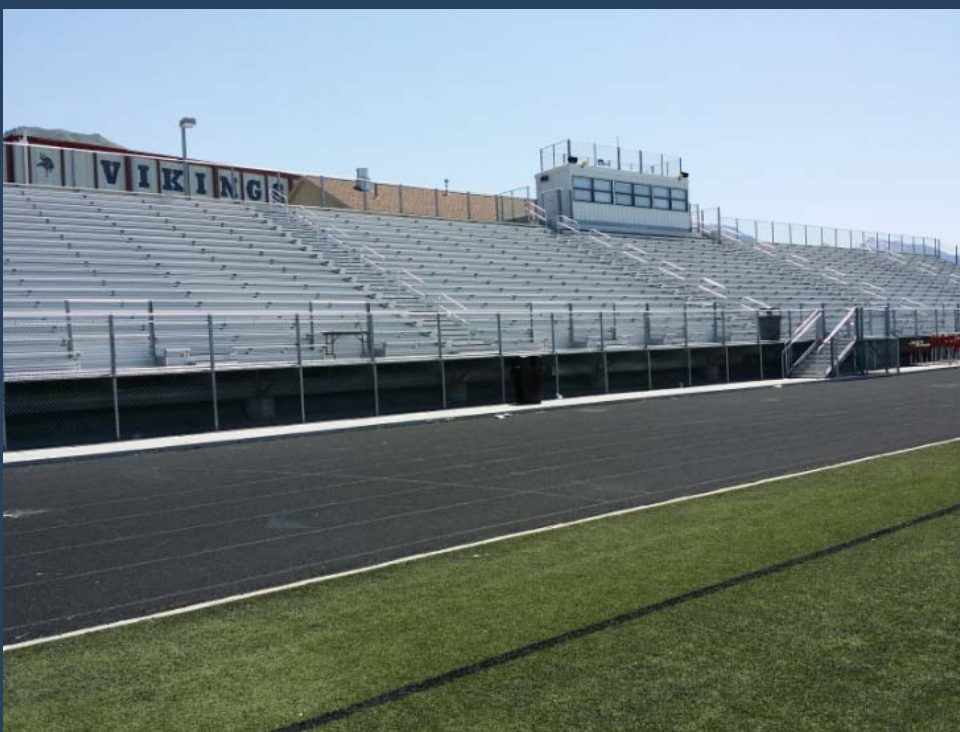

Down by the auditorium, they have changed those trophy cases to display cases. Each decade has a display case with memorabilia. Our decade is full of stuff we contributed.

Including this nugget:

New Football Stadium – Nothing like when we were there...MUCH BETTER.

Refurbished Gym and Seats

Great upgrades. Of course, the best class has already come and gone.....

Liz and I really enjoy the DIY type of stuff in beautifying our yard and house. We also like to run and I like soccer. This year is my first 12 mile Spartan Race and I just finished a really fun indoor soccer season with a clinic team. However, as with most parents of young children, most of our free time is spent doing stuff with our kids..

In the past...

Dan Ibarra in the past has lived in After graduation, I attended SUU in Cedar City, UT on a Track scholarship. I took a 2 year break for a mission in Salta, Argentina. After graduating from SUU we moved to Highlands Ranch, Colorado where I taught High School and coached soccer and track. It didn't take long for me to realize I was meant to do something different and after the attacks of 9/11 I joined the Army. I completed my initial Infantry and Airborne training at Ft. Benning, Georgia. I volunteered for the Special Forces (Green Berets), so I then moved to Ft. Bragg, North Carolina for the assessment and selection process to try and get into SF. I was selected and was able to have Liz move there to join me as I completed my training at Ft. Bragg. After completion of all my SF training, we moved back to Orem, UT and I joined my unit at Camp Williams. My deployments took me to some Asian countries such as Bangladesh, Thailand, and the southern Philippines/Indonesia areas. We then moved to SLC while I attended PA school at the UofU. Now we're back to Orem, probably to stay. and worked as/at After High School I worked several jobs here and there while getting through college, to include landscaping, janitorial work, cafeteria work, tutoring and telemarketing. My first real job was as a High School teacher and coach in Colorado. My first "cool" job was really my time spent in the Special Forces. As part of training everyone is selected to go into 1 of 4 specialties on the teams, I was a medic, so I spent a lot of extra time in medical training and refresher courses for my assignment. It opened the world of medicine to me and is what led me to want to be a PA. I considered medical school, but it would have been a much longer road with considerably higher student loans and being older with a family I decided the PA route was the best way for me to get into practicing medicine. It has turned out great for us and I enjoy my work...most of

Education

Bachelors Degree: Sports Medicine, Secondary Education, Spanish. SUU, Cedar City, UT

Masters Degree: Physician Assistant Studies, UofU, SLC, UT

Additional Service

Deployments to South East Asia, didn't get to go to the deserts.

Major Accomplishments

I suppose there are a few things I'm fairly proud of that I've been able to accomplish. Starting out right after High School I was very lucky to land a full ride scholarship in Track. I had taken 2nd in State my senior year and wasn't sure if my times were fast enough to impress any college the time..coaches. SUU took a chance on me and I ended up doing very well. Made it to Nationals my freshman year and was conference champion my sophomore year. After my mission I was starting out the 2000 season running some very fast times and we thought I might have a chance at the Olympic trials if I could keep improving, but alas, fate had other plans and I suffered a pretty brutal hamstring injury that derailed any of those hopes. Next on the list of accomplishments would have to be my military service. I enjoyed and miss my time as a soldier. As a member of the Special Forces I was able to participate in some very exciting training and operations. I am proud of the work we did and the awards I received. The physical, mental and emotional challenges through those experiences were extremely rewarding. But by far, my greatest accomplishment in life so far has been to somehow convince Liz to stick with me for all these years. All other success in life has pale in comparison to our happy marriage.
